PRIEST IN RAGE THROWS ROSARY BEADS AND MONEY AT SPECTATORS IN COURT

Coroner's "Millionaire" Jury Quickly Finds Verdict Against Him for Killing Girl.

SHONTS IS FOREMAN.
Interboro President Glad to Serve, He Says, but Wall Street Men Grumble.

Hans Schmidt, the discredited priest who has confessed the murder of Anna Ammiller, the servant girl, formerly of St. Donat's rectory, with whom he lived at No. 68 Bradhurst avenue, went into a melodramatic rage today just before a coroner's jury found him guilty of the murder.
He hurled his rosary and the money there was in his pockets—a dollar bill and a small quantity of change—at the audience. The rosary and the money struck the faces of the reporters working at the rail dividing the spectators from the enclosure reserved for the coroner, the lawyers and the jury.

The outburst of the murderer came just as the jurors, headed by President Theodore P. Shonts of the Interboro League, Vincent Astor, the richest bachelor in America, J. B. Greenhut, the department store magnate, and Mr. W. L. Low, the head of a theatrical syndicate, had risen after Coroner Feinberg's charge to go to an anteroom to form their verdict. Coroner Feinberg had finished his charge to the jury by making an appeal to the public spirit and to the men of the community to save the fragments of the body of Anna Ammiller from Potter's field. The spectacle of the coroner making this appeal to a jury which had somewhat ostentatiously been gathered by him as a "jury of millionaires" not withstanding the fact that the Public Administrator now has charge of the dead girl's $200 bank account, caused a slight disturbance back among the spectators, which increased into a buzz of comment as the jury rose.

REPORTER'S FACE CUT BY SIL-VER CROSS ROSARY.
Schmidt, with a stubby beard and a malicious look in his eyes, sprang from his seat beside Lawyer Koebler, his counsel, and Detective Casanueva and faced the spectators, baring his teeth with a snarl. He reached into his right trousers pocket, drawing out a crumpled dollar bill, a number of small coins and a jet rosary, and with a swooping gesture of contempt hurled them at the audience. The small silver cross on the rosary made a slight cut on the face of one of the reporters. The coins rattled and jingled across the floor.

Lawyer Koebler and Detective Casanueva jammed Schmidt back into his chair.
Detective McKenna hastily went to his assistance. The coins, the rosary and the dollar bill were hastily picked up and passed to the detectives.

BODY FOUND IN RIVER; LEFT ARM IS MISSING

Part of Right Foot Is Gone and There Was a Wound
Across the Face.

William J. Keyes, a dock worker, this afternoon found the body of a man in the water off Seventy-ninth street, Brooklyn. The left arm and lower portion of the right foot were missing and there was a gash across the face.

Keyes notified the police of the Fifth avenue station and a patrolman moved the body there. The dead man was about forty years old, five feet ten inches in height and weighed about 175 pounds. He wore a pair of gray striped trousers, but no coat. An identification card in his pocket from the National Protective Association of No.
350 Nassau street bore the number 6451.

Girl Who Now Confesses Oelrichs Innocent of Stabbing

LULU BETTY SINGLETON

25 WORSHIPPERS INJURED BY COLLAPSE OF GALLERY

Section 30 Feet Long Carries Down 100 on Heads of Those Below.

Twenty-five worshippers were hurt, one seriously, when a 30-foot section of gallery running around the four sides of the congregation of the Orthodox Hebrew synagogue, at No. 227 East One Hundred and Sixth street, collapsed near 9 o'clock A. M. today under the weight of about 100 persons crowded there, and dropped them upon the heads of hundreds packed below them during the religious services being conducted in celebration of Rosh-ha-Shanah, or Jewish New Year.

Those whose injuries required the services of the doctors who came with four ambulances from Harlem and Mt.
Sinai Hospital were:

HOBERKAIN, HARRY, No. 106 Park avenue; lacerations of both legs; taken to Harlem Hospital.

KAPLAN, SAMUEL, No. 152 Madison avenue; lacerations of the forehead.

LASTWIG, FANNY, No. 147 Madison avenue; lacerations of both legs.

FRIEDMAN, IGNATZ, No. 113 East One Hundred and Fifth street; right hand torn.

BRILLIANT, Mrs. ANNIE, No. 24 East One Hundred and Sixth street; contusion of the right arm and leg.

PALEY, LEON, No. 41 East One Hundred and Fifth street; lacerations of the shoulder.

SEIDEL, HATTIE, No. 134 East One Hundred and Fourth street; right hand crushed.

STUTZ, FANNIE, No. 71 East One Hundred and Second street; right ear torn.

PARTIKY, ROSE, No. 25 East One Hundred and Seventh street; internal injuries and syncope; removed to Harlem Hospital.

SOMI, Mrs. HENRI, No. 20 East One Hundred and Sixth street; internal injuries, serious; removed to Mt.
Sinai Hospital.

SIGEL, Mrs. PINET, No. 30 East

One Hundred and Second street, internal injuries, serious; removed to Mt. Sinai Hospital.

The collapse of the gallery was followed by another near approach to tragedy at the doors of the hall. These are two in number, both less than four feet wide. When the frightened worshippers rushed out from the hall, their tumult being augmented by 100 members of the congregation of the synagogue, who were at service on the fourth floor of the same building, victims piled up in front of the exits like cordwood and many of the injuries suffered were resulted there.

HALL WAS IN USE FOR AN OVERFLOW SERVICE.
The congregation of the Orthodox Hebrew synagogue at No. 227 East One Hundred and Sixth street, because of the overflow of services, necessary at this great festival of the orthodox Hebrew religious calendar, the hall on East One Hundred and Sixth street was pressed into service yesterday and today.

There Rabbi Nathan Tannenbaum was conducting the New Year services this morning when the accident occurred.

Clairmont Hall has a dimension of 100 feet by about 20. About the hall is a narrow gallery not more than six feet deep and about ten feet above the floor. When the worshippers flocked to the hall this morning at the sound of the "shofar," or sacred trumpet, there

GIRL NOW CONFESSES OELRICHS DIDN'T STAB HER BEFORE SMASHUP

Miss Singleton Breaks Down Under Questioning of Assistant District-Attorney and Gives New Version of Auto Ride.

"I'M SORRY FOR HARM DONE," SAYS THE TEARFUL VICTIM

Repeats First Story, Then Suddenly Becomes Hysterical, Declaring "It's All Lies, Lies, Lies."

Miss Lucille Singleton, the beautiful girl who was in Hermann Oelrichs's automobile on Tuesday night when it skidded into a tree at Broadway and One Hundred and Twentieth street and was wrecked and who said that Oelrichs had lost control of the car while she struggled with him after he had stabbed her several times, made a confession to Assistant District-Attorney James A. O'Malley to-day, admitting that her whole story of the stabbing was a tissue of lies.

She said she did not know why she had told it and was sorry now for the trouble she had caused.

Here is the substance of her confession:

"I, Lucille Bertha Singleton, desire to make this statement: That Mr. Oel-richs did not stab me and the accident in which his automobile struck a tree would never have happened if we had not been drinking. We had dined at a Broadway restaurant and afterward had taken a ride up Broadway.
We were returning downtown when the car skidded at One Hundred and Twentieth street and crashed into a tree.
I was thrown through the windshield and covered with blood. I was stunned.
When I came to my senses Mr.
Oelrichs was gone. I did not see him go and I did not know where he went.
I was confused. I was taken to the hospital in an automobile. I scarcely knew what was happening to me at the time.

"I don't know whether or not there was a third person in the car. I am confused about it and I do not know why I said it. I do not know why I told any of the stories I did tell. I do not know Mr. Oelrichs except as I came to know him on Tuesday night.
I never knew him before. I am sorry for all the trouble I have caused for him. Mr. Oelrichs treated me as a gentleman would treat a lady.

"I have received no money or other consideration for making this statement but make it because I am now sorry for the story I told and for the trouble I caused."

PLYMOUTH CHURCH IN BROOKLYN IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

Blaze Confined to Sunday School Class Rooms and Library—Loss About $8,000.

Henry Ward Beecher's old church, the Plymouth Congregational, at the corner of Hicks and Henry streets, in Brooklyn, suffered an $8,000 loss by fire this afternoon. The Sunday school class rooms and library on the second floor of the building behind the big organ were gutted, but the firemen managed to confine the flames to that wing of the building and the body of the church was not hurt.

The fire was discovered by workmen who are constructing a new wing on the Orange and Cranberry street side of the building. An alarm was turned in by Thomas MacLellan, the foreman in charge of the laborers. By the time the engine came the flames were burning bravely through the Sunday-school rooms.

Seaton Halsey rushed into the body of the church and carried out all the old records of Beecher's time.

While firemen were carrying in a line of hose over the unroofed new section of the church Fireman William Wahle of Engine No. 296 fell through the beams to the cellar and was severely hurt in the region of the spine.

HE FLIES WITH FIVE 3,281 FEET IN CLOUDS

Austrian Aviator Sablatnik in Crowded Aeroplane Makes a New High Sky Record.

JOHANNSTHAL, Germany, Oct. 3.— A new record for high flying with five passengers was made at the aerodrome here today by the Austrian aviator Sablatnik, who reached an altitude of 3,281 feet.

The girl was on the verge of hysteria and for several minutes she sobbed constantly. Her tears seemed to do her good. Mr. O'Malley refrained from questioning her until she had recovered her composure in a measure and then he said gently: "Suppose you tell me all about it—just what did happen.
Then we can get this thing straight in justice to Mr. Oelrichs."

"Oh, yes, I want to do that," said the girl. "I've done harm enough."

Then she made the confession, speaking slowly and evidently trying to recall the exact truth and to give it plainly and simply.
